The Personal Librarian

By Marie Benedict. This novel covers the remarkable life of Belle da Costa Greene, who worked for the wealthy New York banker JP Morgan and helped amass the amazing collection of rare manuscripts and artwork now housed in the Morgan Library and Museum – all the while disguising her identity as a person of colour in the early 20th century.

Film Club

Friday, November 14th @ 7:30 pm – Joyeux Noel

This moving film is about the spontaneous ceasefires along the front in WWI, when the French, German and British troops laid down their arms and came out of the trenches to celebrate Christmas 1914 together.
